

Default List Headers by List Type

When a new list is created, certain keyword values are defined in the list header. Some of the values set are common across all lists some are unique to the list type chosen when the list is created. For keywords that are not defined, the default values are used. Default values for keywords can be found at <http://www.lsoft.com/manuals/15.5/listkeyw.html#keyDefaultValues>.

Please use the information provided below to tailor the behavior of your list and to change from one type of list to another.
